

George A. Fuller Lectureship Series, Department of Economics, Iowa State University

George A. Fuller, a native of Muscatine, Iowa, received a Bachelor's degree in Economics from Iowa State University and a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Iowa. His career has included work in the export and transportation industries, time with the Air Force as a flyer and as a transportation economist, extensive travel and teaching, and numerous awards.

He received a Danforth Fellowship at Harvard and was a Fulbright lecturer and Visiting Professor at the Swedish School of Economics and the Helsinki School of Economics. He has taught at the USDA Graduate School, the University of Iowa, UCLA, USC, University of North Carolina, and served for many years as Professor of Economics at the University of Utah. He has studied economic conditions in Asia, Europe, Africa, and Latin America.

Dr. Fuller's career has truly spanned the practice and theory of Economics. A generous gift from him funds this lecture.
