Pioneer Hi-Bred International Chair in Science and Technology Policy

The Pioneer Hi-Bred International Chair in Science and Technology Policy was established in 1999 through an endowment provided to Iowa State University by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

The purpose of the Chair is to provide economic research and leadership in the evolving policy debate on new agricultural science and technology, help define appropriate roles for the public and private sectors, assist the research and outreach programs of ISU, and benefit the companies in Iowa and the Midwest that have led the development of modern agriculture worldwide.

The Chair is housed in the Center for Agricultural and Rural Development, Department of Economics, Iowa State University.
